Evening Program (20:10 – 21:35)

- Robert Lefebvre introduced the speaker: Richard H. Rooley, FREng, ASHRAE past president, ASHRAE DL.
- Mr. Rooley's presentation of the evening was entitled "The human seven deadly sins in the use and construction of buildings", making a parallel between the engineering industry, in particular the design portion of it, and the original seven deadly sins from the Bible. The speaker wanted to illustrate the challenges the industry are facing and the required attitude and communicating skills engineers must develop to reach and keep the status our profession deserves in the society. Obviously one of his priority, Mr. Rooley also emphasized on the importance of designing buildings that can be easily maintained.
- Robert Lefebvre thanked Mr. Rooley for her presentation and presented her with gifts.
- Robert Lefebvre reminded the audience of the next meeting, that will be spouses night as well as the Past President night, May 20th.
- Meeting adjourned 21:35.
